Nexus Design Software uses your information to help us understand your needs and interests and provide you with better services. Specifically, we use your information to communicate with you, to provide service and support and to update you on relevant services and benefits. Occasionally we may also use your information to contact you for market research regarding our products or services. We will always give you the opportunity to opt-out of market research and customer surveys. Data collected online may also be combined with information you provide through other sources such as product registration, call centres or public events such as trade shows.

Non-personal data is aggregated for reporting about Nexus Design Software's web site usability, performance, and effectiveness. It is used to improve the customer experience, usability and site content.

Who we share it with

Nexus Design Software will not sell, rent, or lease your personally identifiable information to any other party such as a business partner or a related third party company unless you have given permission to do so. Your permission will be requested when you submit your information. Protection of your personal information. The personal information that you provide in connection with registering yourself as a user of Nexus Design Software products, services or e-Newsletters is classified as Personal Information. This Information is protected in several ways. Access by you to your Registration Information is available through a password and unique customer ID selected by you. This password is encrypted. We recommend that you do not divulge your password to anyone. In addition, your personal Information resides on a server that only selected Nexus Design Software's personnel or authorised agents have access to via password.

Use of cookies

When you visit this Site, you can browse the Site and access information without revealing your identity. In order to improve our Site, we use "cookies" to track your visit. A cookie is a small amount of data that is transferred to your browser by a Web server and can only be read by the server that gave it to you. It functions as your identification card, and enables Nexus Design Software to record your passwords, purchases, and preferences. It cannot be executed as code or deliver viruses. Most browsers are initially set to accept cookies. You can set your browser to notify you when you receive a cookie, giving you the chance to decide whether to accept it.

For some Web pages that require an authorisation or login, cookies are not optional. Users choosing not to accept cookies will probably not be able to access those pages.

While Nexus Design Software uses cookies to track your visit to this web site, our Web servers automatically log the IP/Internet address of your computer, Nexus Design Software does not generally use this information to identify you personally. However, if you expressly provide consent for Nexus Design Software to "remember" the unique identifier that you select when you register for various activities on the site, that unique identifier will be stored on a cookie on your computer, linked to your registration information, and your navigation path around the site will be tracked. We associate this data to understand how our site and services are being used so we can understand our customers and improve navigation around the site.
